

About Howard Fine

When he was a little boy, he could never decide what he wanted to be when he grew up and became a big adult. So he became many different things, but never very big. He danced in modern dance and classical ballet companies, and choreographed and participated in performance art events with Tanzprojekt München, Theaterlabor München, Bavarian State Opera and elsewhere.

His voice is often heard in radio plays, audiobooks (and from the mouths of cartoon characters). As lyricist and vocalist, he shared the German Record Critics' Prize with the Ströer Bros. for their jazz and poetry project "Nomaden," which was followed by the CDs "Voodoo Travel" and now "homeward."

As a translator, he enables English speakers to understand German texts in genres such as literature, art criticism and poetry. He is a naturopath for psychotherapy, a certified shamanic counsellor and a yoga teacher. He earned a bachelor's degree from Harvard and a master's degree in literature from the University of Munich. He lives outside of Munich and in the South of France.
